

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A transformer is provided that includes a plurality of metal lines and a magnetic material provided about the plurality of metal lines. The magnetic material may include a structure to reduce Eddy currents flowing in the magnetic material. This structure may be a plurality of slots extending perpendicular to the metal lines. This structure may also be a laminated structure.